

Cottontails

What Do You Know?

1. T/F Bunnies are a good animal for a new and inexperienced rehabber.
2. T/F It helps a bunny for people to kiss and hug it since it's not with its mother.
3. T/F Cat bites are often successfully treated with Baytril or SMZ.
4. T/F It is good to have one or two people feeding a bunny so they will know how next time.
5. T/F Bunnies are lactose intolerant.
6. T/F Bunnies eyes open when they are six to ten days old.
7. T/F You should always feed a hungry bunny on intake since you don't know how long it's been away from its mother.
8. T/F Loud noises only bother bunnies when they're eating.
9. T/F A "cat-bunny" does not need antibiotics unless it has an open wound.
10. T/F The steps to follow when receiving a bunny is to place it in a quiet place, get it warm, and hydrate it.
11. T/F If a bunny gets diarrhea, it's okay to watch it for a couple of days before treating it.
12. T/F The best way to tell if a mother rabbit is coming back to her nest is to put a tic-tac-toe pattern of sticks over the nest.
13. T/F Two ways to tell if a bunny is dehydrated is hunger and clear urine.